

SIGNiX’s remote online notarization integration with Zoom’s audio-video technology saves time and money for notaries and their clients.

Before the advent of remote online notarizations, traditional notary transactions had many physical requirements that were often costly and inconvenient making the whole notarization process inefficient for all parties involved. These transactions included handwritten pen-and-ink signatures, paper documents and rubber stamp notary seals. Additionally, and most importantly, the signer of these documents was required to physically appear in person with the notary to make the transaction legally compliant.

SIGNiX’s remote online notary (RON) solution, eNotaryDoX, provides a secure and convenient, completely electronic alternative to the traditional in-person notary process using our patented digital signature technology in concert with audio-visual technology provided by Zoom.

Depending on their state, notaries may be required to keep records of their notarial acts in the form of an audiovisual recording. With SIGNiX’s RON solution, notaries are able to record and store notary sessions made with Zoom’s video conferencing technology.

Because of the integration with Zoom, notaries who use SIGNiX’s RON technology can conduct their business in a secure online environment at a fraction of the cost of traditional in-person notarization while meeting the legal requirements and industry standards of their field.

Remote Online Notarization

Challenge

With traditional in-person notarizations, notaries and their clients have to physically appear in front of each other in order to comply with their state’s rules and regulations.

Solution

SIGNiX’s integration with Zoom enables notaries and their clients to meet virtually to perform notarial acts in a secure and legally compliant online environment.

Benefit

Through the use of Zoom’s audio-video technology, notaries and their clients can save time and money compared to traditional in-person notarizations.
